Hide the book jackets

Remove glossy, colorful dust jackets from your heavy coffee table books to reveal the solid, matte linen covers hidden underneath for a unified, intentional look.

The 5-Step Anchoring Strategy

1. Finished-bottom tray Use solid wood or wrapped leather to hide raw manufacturing materials from the direct upward view.
2. Stem-concealing vessel Swap clear glass for unglazed terracotta to hide messy stems and murky floral water.
3. Offset tier placement Position the top tray directly over an entirely empty section of the bottom glass tier.
4. Grid-aligned books Create a rigid architectural foundation with perfectly parallel stacks on the lower level.
5. Sculptural wood chain Drape over the top book of one stack to add organic, three-dimensional visual weight.

Base Book Sizing Guide

Find your row: Book Category

Book Category	Your pick	Why
Photography	Min. 10x13 inches	Build 3-4 inches high
Architecture	Min. 11x14 inches	Build 4-5 inches high
Travel or Lifestyle	Min. 9x12 inches	Build 3 inches high

Visual Balance Checks

- [ ] Restrict styling to a maximum of three distinct groupings.
- [ ] Leave 3 to 4 inches of breathing room between stacks.
- [ ] Place the largest, heaviest volume at the absolute bottom.
- [ ] Use dried botanicals or fresh branches instead of plastic.
- [ ] Select matte, chalky ceramic finishes to absorb room light.

Before You Finalize

- ○ Check the underside of your top-tier tray for exposed staples.
- ○ Verify existing architectural wood tones to coordinate tray material.
- ○ Ensure wide channels around bottom books for easy dusting.
- ○ View the table from your main seating area to check balance.
- ○ Position floor lamps to catch the edges of the lower books.
