Press the long edge of your phone flat against the painted trim. This built-in architectural support eliminates frustrating camera shake in tight spaces requiring longer exposures.

Lock Your Camera Settings

1. Clean the lens Wipe with a microfiber cloth to prevent glowing, hazy halos around your window light.
2. Set the exposure Tap a mid-tone surface like light oak to balance light and shadow beautifully.
3. Lock and adjust Press the mid-tone until AE/AF Lock appears, then drag the sun icon slightly downward.
4. Prevent micro-blur Tuck elbows against ribs, exhale completely, tap the shutter, and hold still for one full second.

Style To Your Surfaces

Find your row: Prominent room feature

Prominent room feature	Your pick	Why
Warm wood and white walls	Modern organic	Vibrant greenery softens the stark walls
Dark green beadboard	Moody vintage	Living brass finishes add historic charm
Large-format stone tiles	Minimalist spa	Fewer grout lines make footprints seamless
Black and white marble	Traditional elegance	Classic checkerboard anchors with timeless contrast
Earthy terracotta floors	Bohemian bright	Woven baskets bring relaxed, warm texture

10-Minute Styling Sweep

- [ ] Hide branded plastic bottles and daily grooming products.
- [ ] Wipe down fixtures; leave only intentional decorative elements.
- [ ] Fold fresh, fluffy white towels uniformly on bars.
- [ ] Add exactly one piece of fresh greenery.
- [ ] Group remaining aesthetic items on a single tray.
- [ ] Polish every visible metal fixture with dry cloth.
- [ ] Turn off overhead artificial lights and vanity sconces.

Check Before You Shoot

- [ ] Enable the 3x3 camera grid in your phone's main settings.
- [ ] Align a vertical grout line on grid to keep architecture straight.
- [ ] Step 12-18 inches off-center to shoot mirror off-axis without capturing yourself.
- [ ] Leave a slender sliver of ceiling visible to establish room height.
- [ ] Pull a sheer white curtain if direct sunbeams create blown-out patches.
- [ ] Tap hinge pins out if an inward-swinging door blocks wide shots.
